DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-8, drawn to a system for providing individualized doses, classified in class 53 subclass 55
 - II. Claims 9-10, drawn to a system for generating orders, classified in class 700.
 - III. Claims 11-17, drawn to an apparatus for packaging pills, classified in class 53, subclass 509.
 - IV. Claims 18-35, drawn to a method of dispensing individualized doses classified in class 53, subclass 474.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

2. Inventions I and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the interface of the combination has many other usable functions. The subcombination has separate utility such as accessing patient information, without packaging any pills.

Art Unit: 3721

3. Inventions I and III are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention I has separate utility such as for packaging and labeling small quantities of pills, without the need for the supply lines and conveyors of Invention II. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

4. Inventions IV and I are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case, the apparatus of Invention I can be used to package pills for a pre-existing dosing schedule, obviating the need to establish a dosing schedule, as in Invention IV.

5. Inventions III and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the interface of the combination has many other usable functions. The subcombination has separate utility such as accessing patient information, without packaging any pills.

Art Unit: 3721

6. Inventions IV and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the interface of the combination has many other usable functions. The subcombination has separate utility such as accessing patient information, without packaging any pills.

7. Inventions IV and III are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case, the apparatus of Invention III can be used to package pills for a pre-existing dosing schedule, obviating the need to establish a dosing schedule, as in Invention IV.

8. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Art Unit: 3721

9. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
